REGENERATION PLAN UNVEILED

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

AMBITIOUS regeneration plans for Wood Green town centre could provide 6,000 new homes and 4,000 extra jobs, plus improved shopping facilities and transport links.

Residents and traders are being given a say on the far-reaching proposals when Haringey Council launches a public consultation next week – including an exhibition and online survey – following approval of the options last week by the cabinet.

The vision of the future involves large-scale redevelopment over the next 20 years which the council believes will make it one of the most desirable places in London to live and work.

It could also revive its flagging fortunes as a shopping destination.

Research shows it is performing poorly against other shopping areas in the capital while a survey conducted by the council last year found the overwhelming majority thought The Mall shopping centre and High Road needed updating.

Much could depend on whether Crossrail 2 – the planned rail link to north-east and south-east London – opts for the Wood Green station route over an alternative proposal via Turnpike Lane and Alexandra Palace stations.

The regeneration would see a major new public square built around the Crossrail 2 station.

In addition to thousands of affordable new homes, The Mall shopping centre, Vue cinema, Arriva bus depot and other sites would be upgraded to provide an improved shopping and leisure destination.

There would also be more high street shops and nearly 60,000 sq ft of new employment space, as well as transformed pedestrian and cycle routes to a restored Alexandra Palace and Hornsey.

It would also boost Wood Green's cultural quarter by attracting more tech and artisan start-up businesses.

"Local people have made it clear what they want to see in any regeneration of Wood Green and we've been working hard to develop a range of options that could make their ambitions a reality," said Alan

"Some of these options would mean important changes for our town centre, so we really want to hear what residents and traders think of our plans and listen to their ideas."

Library reopening is delayed by additional safety work

THE reopening of a library undergoing a multi-million-pound overhaul has been delayed so additional work to make ceilings safe can be carried out.

Major refurbishment of the Marcus Garvey Library, at Tottenham Green in Philip Lane, was scheduled to be completed at the beginning of 2016 following a six-month temporary closure.

But the library will now remain shut until May while contractors ensure the unforeseen problems with the ceilings are solved.

More than £3million is being spent by Haringey Council on refurbishing the library, which will see some of its customer services relocated from Apex House, on the corner of High Road and Seven Sisters Road, which is to be demolished and redeveloped for new homes.

"We are committed to opening a building that everyone can be proud of – boasting top quality facilities and a better layout," said the council's cabinet member for culture and resources Jason Arthur.

"While any delay is frustrating, it is important that we take the time to get this project right," he added.

When finished the renovated library will have high-tech facilities, improved furnishings and a children's garden.

In the meantime services have been relocated to operate from neighbouring buildings, with children's sessions at Bernie Grant Arts Centre and study space at nearby Tottenham Town Hall.

Lib Dems seek talks over future of post offices

DEMANDS are being made to safeguard the future of two branch post offices in Haringey.

They are among a list of 42 loss-making branches on a UK-wide hit list, compiled by the Post Office, which could face closure should no private company want to take them over as franchises.

Haringey Liberal Democrats have called for an urgent meeting with the Post Office to discuss the plans for the branches at Topsfield Parade, Crouch End, and at Muswell Hill Broadway.

"We have made it clear that we must keep both post offices which provide important services for the community," said Gail Engert, leader of the opposition group on Haringey Council.

"We also expect them to provide the same services as now, with the same or better opening hours," she added.

Flat blaze drama

THIRTEEN people were rescued by firefighters after a shop blaze in the early hours of Saturday.

The occupants of flats above the premises, in West Green Road, Tottenham, were evacuated by fire crews wearing breathing apparatus.

A dozen other people escaped from the flames before the fire brigade arrived.

A woman and a child were later treated for smoke inhalation.

More than 20 firefighters from Tottenham and Stoke Newington stations fought the blaze which gutted the shop. The cause is suspected as being "electrical".

Mixed messages on cycling bid

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE Mayor of London has given out mixed messages over his support of the Cycle Enfield infrastructure overhaul.

Two weeks ago the Conservative MP for Enfield Southgate David Burrowes released the results of his "referendum" after he counted up postcards in favour and against the scheme.

He said that 75 per cent of people who replied to his leaflets were against the scheme in Green Lanes as it currently stands.

He set up a meeting with Boris Johnson and then announced that the mayor had instructed the council to halt the entire scheme for two weeks.

However, while Mr Burrowes claimed that Mr Johnson was urging council chiefs to slam the breaks on, the mayor wrote to council leader Doug Taylor laying out his full backing for the scheme.

In the letter dated January 21, seen by the Advertiser, Mr Johnson says: "I am not proposing a halt or a stop to the scheme, merely some time to engage further in order to bring about the widest possible agreement. However, given that Enfield, with the support of all political parties, made a proper, legal and successful bid for its mini-Holland scheme in 2013, it is my view and Transport for London's that the A105 scheme has now progressed to a point where any decision on further engagement must be for the council and the council alone."

However, speaking to the Advertiser on a visit to Edmonton last week, Mr Johnson was lukewarm in his backing for council chiefs.

He said he was concerned by "substantial opposition" to the scheme in Enfield Town.

"The official consultation in the Green Lanes part certainly showed a modest balance in favour and that's very encouraging obviously" he said.

"However, my anxiety is that there are a great many people in Enfield at the moment who don't seem to be persuaded about the merits of the scheme."

"I think this is a matter for local democracy, but my impression is, and something I have to take into account as mayor, there is still quite a lot of resistance."

"I hope very much the council will be able to overcome that resistance to get more support behind the scheme."

Stop, or go: The controversy over the future of the Cycle Enfield plans rumbles on

...as Tory leader blasts consultation results 'propaganda'

TORY politicians have accused council chiefs of acting like Soviet-era Stasi propagandists over their handling of the Cycle Enfield consultation process.

In a public denouncement of the council's tactics in presenting the findings of the Enfield Town consultation process, the leader of the Conservative group Terry Neville has accused council officers of "pumping out propaganda".

The council this week admitted that the public consultation into proposals to radically alter Enfield Town to make it more cycle friendly showed that 60 per cent of those who responded were opposed to the scheme. However, the cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson said: "We are delighted that so many people took the time to tell us what they thought of our draft proposals."

Mr Neville said: "Enfield Council should be ashamed of itself for trying to treat people who live in our borough as fools by pumping out propaganda more akin to something that would be issued in Moscow."

The Tory group initially backed the 2013 bid for the £30million from City Hall to revolutionise cycling infrastructure in the borough, but Mr Neville is now adamant that the scheme is "ill-thought-out and unsuitable".

He said that instead of admitting Enfield residents did not want the scheme imposed on Enfield Town and Southbury Road, the council had refused to release the feedback from its "sham of a consultation".

He added: "That the council should try and hide the results and spin their way out of trouble is frankly shameful."

A council spokesman told the Advertiser that 58 per cent of people who responded to the public consultation on the Southbury Road section of Cycle Enfield supported the plans and 40 per cent were opposed.

The plans for the Green Lanes section had been amended to include protection for bus passengers with plans for special borders to protect them from oncoming cyclists, provision for blue badge holders and dial a ride vehicles to set down and pick up passengers at any point along the route and extra parking in Palmers Green and Winchmore Hill town centres.

The revised plans will be set before the cabinet on February 10.

Learning the ropes: Boris Johnson looks on, above, as furniture maker Aysha Shah gets to work on a floor lamp and, right, he studies a bicycle frame under the watchful eye of Rob Quirk, of Quirk Cycles

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

WIELDING a welding tool while brandishing a length of wood may be how the current Mayor of London wishes to be remembered by the borough.

In the depths of an eerie industrial estate south of the North Circular Road on the very edge of the borough, Boris Johnson last week announced a new tranche of funding for regeneration projects in London while getting some hands-on experience of carpentry.

More than £1million of the £20m fund is being poured into the Building BloQ studios, in Anthony Way, Upper Edmonton, to create workshops and studios for designers and artists who need an affordable way to hire industrial space and heavy-duty equipment.

The brightly painted studios lie at the heart of a grey and bleak industrial estate on the other side of the Lee Navigation to where the £2.5billion Meridian Water development is planned.

Laser cutting machines, welding torches and carpentry benches are used by furniture designers and artists in the large and draughty shed founded in 2012 by Arnaud Nichols, Al Parra, Alex Motta, Avinder Nanray and Julien Thomasset, who wanted to help fellow artists and designers who were struggling to find workshop space.

£1million boost for design workshops to make a move

“So many of our friends who were makers didn’t have a space to work in,” said Mr Nichols.

“They said that what the community of creators, designers and artists really need is an affordable space where they can work flexibly to either develop their own work or work on specific commissions.”

Together with the local authority the Building BloQs team launched a bid for a slice of the regeneration money available from the Greater London Authority to relocate the studios to the other side of the Lee Navigation.

The £1,350,000 award from City Hall means that the studios will now move to a position where they can create a much larger space that will also have dedicated area for education and outreach activities.

Many of those using the space while Mr Johnson, who finishes his stint as mayor in May, tried his hand at a little light wood carving are self-employed designers, which begged the question: “Does small-scale help to individuals and artists count as regeneration?”

“This can be part of the regeneration of an area certainly,” said Mr Johnson, who is the MP for Uxbridge and South Ruislip. “This is something that brings jobs and opportunity.

“The huge shed just over the canal they will be moving to will be bigger than this space and it will offer scope for more employment, better machines and so on.

“Think how some of these London companies started – Brompton Bicycles for example, started very small, but then they grow.”

Enfield Council, who backed the bid for the money, has welcomed the announcement that the small business on the very edges of the borough will benefit from the grant.

Cabinet member for regeneration Alan Sitkin says that the project will not just benefit a few hipsters from outside of the borough, who will come and go without giving any boost to the local economy.

He said: “This will provide 300 jobs in the area and create a hub of high quality commercial activity.”

It was all part of the authority’s overarching masterplan to resuscitate a forgotten industrial corner of the borough, said Mr Sitkin.

He added: “We expect this project to provide hundreds of jobs within the wider Meridian Water development which will provide 8,000 homes, 3,000 jobs, a new train station and other community facilities over the next 20 years.”

'This is turning our area into a slum'

ANNE Antoniou is one of those who is fed up with seeing fly-tippers drive up and unload piles of rubbish at garages near her home in Crofton Way, off The Ridgeway, Enfield, and says enough is enough.

She said some of the rubbish is dumped in the middle of the night as people try to avoid paying fees for the council to take away large items of furniture, or a visit to the tip.

She said: "About two weeks ago a furniture van came and dumped lots of stuff.

"An empty garage has been filled up with old mattresses and even a piano."

She said she was "at her wits' end" and wanted to see action to stop the fly-tippers in their tracks.

She said that people living in the street were fed up with looking at the rubbish.

"It's making this area really into a slum area," she said. "It's really dreadful."

Mrs Antoniou added that council staff had visited and taken photos, but told her their hands were tied as the fly-tippers were leaving rubbish on private land.

An Enfield Council spokesman said that the local authority could not remove rubbish on private land.

"Private landowners are responsible for keeping their own property clear of rubbish and debris," he said.

"The council will only get involved in clearance of any rubbish if it poses an immediate threat to residents. In such a case we will clear the rubbish and then bill the landowner for the work carried out.

He added: "We urge anyone with information about those responsible to contact the council so we can prosecute the perpetrators. We would also appeal to residents to report incidents of fly-tipping through our website, so we can clear them as soon as possible."

Anyone caught fly-tipping risks a six-month prison sentence, or a fine of up to £25,000.

'Dreadful': Anne Antoniou says she is fed up with fly-tippers

'Don't be a tosser', urges council as it launches fly-tipping campaign

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW campaign has been launched to declare war on fly-tipping, which costs Enfield Council millions of pounds a year to clear up.

The local authority's Don't Be A Tossler campaign is urging people to look after their streets and dispose of waste properly.

The council says it is shelling out £4.4million a year to clear up rubbish, building materials and furniture which have been abandoned on the borough's streets.

Now it wants people to get rid of their rubbish responsibly rather than leave it for someone else to dispose of.

The council's cabinet member for the environment Daniel Anderson said: "We are immensely proud of our borough and we don't want a moronic minority wrecking the environment because they can't be bothered to dispose of their rubbish properly.

"Fly-tipping is antisocial as well as illegal and is a crime against everyone in Enfield."

Mr Anderson warned people that investigators would track down those who dump rubbish.

"We will not hesitate to prosecute people we catch fouling our environment in this manner and if they end up in court they could face six months in jail or a fine of up to £25,000," he said.

"We are urging people 'Don't Be A Tossler' and don't leave your rubbish on the streets of our beautiful borough.

"We can arrange for items to be collected from your doorstep or, if you prefer, you can take it to our recycling site."

Mr Anderson added that if people disposed of their waste material properly it would save money which could be invested in other services.

The council wants residents to report any fly-tipping incidents via its website.

Tributes are paid to Tory heavyweight Parkinson

Politicians remember 'engaging' former Enfield West MP

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to former Enfield MP Cecil Parkinson, who has died aged 84.

The Conservative peer Lord Parkinson served as MP for Enfield West from 1970 to 1974 when the seat was abolished.

He was only the second MP for the seat and won in a by-election following the death of his predecessor and Chancellor of the Exchequer Iain Macleod.

The seat, which included parts of Potters Bar, were swallowed up by the Enfield North, Enfield Southgate and South Hertfordshire (Hertsmere) constituencies.

Nick de Bois, the Conservative MP for Enfield North from 2010 to 2015, said: "I met him on several occasions and he came up to speak here in the last three or four years. He always had very good stories to tell. He was always very charming and an engaging man."

He said he bumped into the peer at the House of Lords after the 2011 Enfield Riots and said that Lord Parkinson recalled the areas which were affected.

"He asked me lots of questions about the riots. When I started to talk about certain areas, he knew them," added Mr de Bois.

After the Enfield West constituency disappeared in 1974, Mr Parkinson was elected as MP for South Hertfordshire and retained the seat when it became Hertsmere. He rose to high rank in the Conservative Party and was appointed Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, working closely alongside Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, having served in the war cabinet during the 1982 Falklands conflict.

However, his career faltered in 1983 after revelations that his parliamentary secretary Sara Keays was expecting his child Flora.

He returned to the cabinet from 1987 to 1990 as energy and then transport secretary. He became a peer in 1992 and was appointed Conservative Party chairman five years later, resigning a year later.

Terry Neville, the leader of Enfield Council's Conservative group, said he remembered Lord Parkinson as a "charming man." He said: "When I was leader first time around in the 1990s, Cecil was chairman of the party and I got to know him reasonably well as a working colleague."

"He was a very decent man to work with and always charming."

He said that Lord Parkinson made return visits to Enfield for Conservative Party annual dinners.

"He would get up after the first course and work the room," he recalled.

Hadley Wood resident and Tory activist Ann Evans joined him campaigning in North Enfield during the 1979 and 1983 general elections and remembered a speech he gave in the early 1970s.

"He was a very genial, amiable, most pleasant person to be around," she said.

"I never knew him be anything other than charming to voters. He was very even tempered with the volunteer workers."

Jailed: Callum Street-Porter, 24, right, was given a seven-year sentence after police seized a stash of guns and ammunition from an address in Edmonton, including a Derringer pistol, pictured below

Man jailed after police seize stash of firearms

A MAN who stashed guns and ammunition in a block of flats has been jailed for more than seven years.

Callum Street-Porter, 24, of Montagu Road, Edmonton, was sentenced to seven-and-a-half years in prison at s Crown Court after admitting two counts of firearms possession.

Street-Porter was arrested after police from the Trident Gang Unit found a loaded Derringer pistol along with four rounds of ammunition in the communal area of flats in Montagu Road in January last year. Shortly after that find officers discovered a .22 revolver and a 9mm pistol alongside live ammunition and spent ammunition casings in the loft of Hereford House, off Cameron Close, Edmonton.

Street-Porter's DNA was found on the .22 revolver and ballistic evidence indicated that a spent casing used with the Derringer was found with the second seizure of the two firearms.

Rachel Mawditt is preparing for the finals of the United Kingdom Galaxy contest in Lancashire on Thursday, February 7.

She is Miss Middlesex Galaxy and winners will compete in an international pageant in America in the summer.

When she's not preparing for the contest, the 23-year-old is learning her lines for her role in an independent film called Bankers.

She is playing Melanie, who discovers the reality of life in banking.

"The story is about how even the most innocent can be swept up by the industry," she said. "It's quite a hard-hitting piece."

"Melanie represents what we have lost. Although she's naïve to a point, she's not stupid."

She is shooting the film at locations in London.

Plans are also afoot for a stage version of the story, which will premiere at the London Theatre, in New Cross, south London, in March.

Rachel, of Faversham Avenue, said there were also plans to stage it in a central London venue.

A former pupil of Merryhills Primary School, in Bincote Road, Enfield, she got the acting bug at an early age.

She attended Bodens stage school, in Barnet, and also studied at the Susi Earnshaw Theatre School, based at The Bull Theatre, in High Street, Barnet.

She later studied at the Arts Educational School, in Tring, Hertfordshire, where one of her classmates was Daisy Ridley, who stars as Rey in the new Star Wars film The Force Awakens.

Rachel joined the National Youth Theatre and appeared on the Channel 4 children's TV show The Hoobs as well as a carol singer in an EastEnders Christmas special.

She also recalled dancing in an English National Opera production of Eugene Onegin at the Coliseum Theatre, in the West End.

She added: "It was my first professional theatre performance and I was just 11. It's a beautiful theatre and it was so exciting for me."

ISIS video man came from Hindu family and grew up in Palmers Green

Fled: Abu Ruymaysah in the video

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE man thought to be the latest London Jihadi featured in an ISIS propaganda video grew up in Palmers Green, a TV documentary programme has revealed.

The Jihadis Next Door, broadcast on Channel 4 last week, opened with an interview of Sidhartha Dhar, 32, also known as Abu Ruymaysah, the man thought to be featured in the video with another man with a London accent executing people he claims were "spies".

At the beginning of the documentary, filmmaker Jamie Roberts interviews Ruymaysah about his background and his beliefs.

The 32-year-old, who ran a bouncy castle rental company, lived in Walthamstow, east London, until he jumped bail and left the country with his pregnant wife and four young children last year.

In the opening scenes, he is asked if he grew up in Walthamstow, to which he says: "No, I grew up in north London, in Palmers Green."

He tells the documentary maker that he grew up in a Hindu family until he converted to Islam when he was 19. He moved away from the area when he got married.

Asked if he, or his family, worry about their safety he replies: "Yeah, I think that's natural. There are tensions and there is caution as well. You see what far-right groups are capable of."

"There is this kind of worry and concern. But that's part of the struggle."

He is introduced as the public relations man for a group of radical Muslims who organise protests against the British government.

In the course of the documentary it is revealed that he was one of nine suspected terrorist sympathisers arrested in police raids in east London.

He was released on bail after three days of questioning and disappeared two days later. It is thought he travelled to Syria.

The documentary reveals he was last seen at Victoria coach station with his wife and children.

The programme also showed the radical group Ruymaysah was associated with standing outside a chemist's in High Street, Wood Green, handing out flyers promoting their beliefs.

They are shown confronting a passing Kurdish procession. The radical group shout "Allahu Akbar" and some of the marchers launch themselves at the group – only stopping when police officers intervened.

The Kurds have been one of the most successful groups in halting the advance of ISIS in northern Iraq and Syria.

Trevor leads the way to allotments

Royal connections: Trevor Smith used to work at Buckingham Palace as head gardener

KEEPING the Queen's borders looking neat and tidy used to be one of Trevor Smith's jobs when he worked as head gardener at Buckingham Palace.

The 63-year-old Edmonton resident, who also worked at St James's Park, the oldest of the capital's royal parks, now puts his gardening expertise to good use on his allotment in Goat Lane, Enfield.

So who better than Trevor to recommend the virtues of becoming an allotment holder of one of Enfield Council's 3,000 plots across 35 sites around the borough?

"Having an allotment can be hard work, but it is extremely rewarding," says Trevor.

"It's great exercise and it feels really good to be in the fresh air cultivating your own fresh vegetables which taste so much better than processed food.

"There is no age limit. I have known allotment owners aged from 19 to people in their mid-80s. Even mums with kids cultivate a plot. It really is an activity anyone can do".

Anyone living in the borough can be an allotment holder provided they are aged over 18. There is no upper age limit and the needs of disabled people can be accommodated

New system gets off the ground to turn on the heat

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS in part of the borough will soon be heating their homes and hot water tanks with energy from below their feet.

The council has started drilling in Ponders End to extract ground energy sources which will soon heat up to 170 homes on the local authority-controlled Exeter Road estate.

Sixty bore holes, each 220 metres deep, will bring stored ground energy to homes through an intricate communal pipe system, which will, in total, save residents as much as £500 a year on their bills.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for housing Ahmet Oyken said: "This innovative solution satisfies all our requirements. It provides warmth and hot water at much reduced cost, harnesses a natural heat source reducing our carbon emissions and replaces an old under-floor heating system.

"Each bore hole will supply a source of heating to four flats and our residents will really benefit from a reliable system at a reduced energy cost.

"Through the Decent Homes scheme these flats are already benefiting from new windows and external wall insulation from a £1million investment of eco funding from British Gas towards the full cost."

Council chiefs are hoping to roll the plans

'Innovative solution': Ahmet Oyken

out across the borough and have their sights set on introducing the system to another eight tower blocks.

The decision on whether to proceed will depend on the outcome of the local authority's application for funding from the government's Renewable Heat Incentive Scheme.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

WHEN the poet William Wordsworth stayed in London in the 1790s, his mind was baffled by the way his neighbours lived as strangers, not knowing each other's names.

In the age of car ownership, London life becomes even more unfriendly.

Admittedly, the parking situation in Fairfield Road, Edmonton, where I live is dire. Most days, you're lucky to find a space within 100 yards of your house.

Sometimes we blame Spurs, sometimes the Angel mosque, sometimes a local taxi firm.

The numerous white van men don't help.

Residents sometimes push their wheelie bins out into the street in an attempt to scare off rival motorists.

I recently took the liberty of shifting some bins back on to the pavement and parked there myself. When I came out an hour or two later, my car had been "keyed".

Last year, one man started a petition in support of a residents' parking scheme.

I wasn't sure this would be the answer, but I signed out of solidarity – at least this guy was engaging with his neighbours.

I haven't seen him since – either he gave up, or the council filed his petition in the bin.

Parking is a trivial matter compared to the refugee crisis or the coming financial crash, but it, too, illustrates the powerlessness of the ordinary person.

It would be a shame to lose this community pub

I HAVE become aware that a popular pub in Ponders End, The Picture Palace, has been put up for sale by JD Wetherspoons.

This has come as a shock to me and many of the regular customers who come from all around the area to use this venue as a social meeting point.

This has also shocked the wonderful bar staff who work very hard to provide a good service to their customers and maintain an atmosphere that is always welcoming regardless of the challenges they can sometimes encounter.

There are rumours that the building itself may be knocked down if any potential purchasers are granted permission to redevelop the site and this has shocked and surprised people considering its age (built in 1913) and its place in the history of this village.

Apparently, the building is not listed (for some unknown reason) and there may well be some of your readers who could tell interesting stories about their experiences at the time it was a cinema and after it was renamed Howard Hall.

I wonder if your newspaper could write an article about the situation and support a petition to save this valuable community asset in its present form as a public house, which is a traditional way of bringing together people from different backgrounds and cultural heritages throughout Enfield.

We can build it – but will they really come?

THE summary in the Enfield Local Plan consultation document states that Enfield must plan for a population of at least 400,000 by 2032, with Councillor Alan Sitkin stressing this, without any qualification.

While it is only right that Enfield should accommodate its share of London's population growth, there is a danger of being scared into planning for more than is really required, with the risk that this then becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy – "if we build it, they will come".

If we are to have a proper debate, then let's start with proper analysis of the figures, rather than accepting the highest projection as holy writ.

The figure of 400,000 comes from a two-year-old Office for National Statistics projection. More recent and, according to the detailed consultation document, more refined projections from the Greater London Authority suggest this figure is at the high end of expectations.

The most recent GLA long-term trend figure suggests a figure of 377,600 for 2032.

Given that the GLA projections are used in the London Plan, why are they not used by Enfield as the headline figures in the summary document, rather than being ignored in favour of the highest figure available?

We should also accept that there is huge uncertainty around any long-term projection. Trends can go into reverse. Thirty years ago the long-term decline in London's population was seen as the big problem.

The risk is that the higher the growth projection, the more potential damage each of the options detailed by the council could do.

If we plan for (and build) 400,000 (or more), we will doubtless get what we plan for. However, we should look closely at the basis for that projection before allowing ourselves to sleepwalk into building on our green belt.

Next time we might not be so lucky when it comes to floods

WE have been very fortunate in London to escape the types of floods experienced in other parts of mainland Britain this winter.

Our housing density and hard paving makes us very vulnerable to river and surface water flooding.

In the event of very heavy rainfall we could be looking at tens of billions of pounds worth of property and infrastructure damage, with a high chance of loss of life. The mayor must step up his river restoration programme, which will increase the storage capacity of the 600 kilometres of rivers that feed into the Thames.

But most are hidden, buried in pipes and unable to cope with heavy rainfall before over-topping.

Mass tree planting in the upper parts of London's 13 river catchments could hold the rainfall back and slow its entry into our rivers.

Restoring half of our front gardens which have been paved over could also protect us from rainfall causing local flooding.

Last orders? Pub put up for sale – but drinkers plan battle to save it

Closure of popular boozer ‘would be a massive loss to the area’, says campaigner

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

DRINKERS are campaigning to save a boozer in a former cinema in Ponders End from closure.

The Picture Palace, on the corner of Lincoln Road and High Street, is one of the pubs chain JD Wetherspoon is planning to sell.

But regulars and real ale campaigners CAMRA are petitioning the company to keep the pub open.

They said they did not want to lose the historic pub, or see it turned into flats.

In a letter to JD Wetherspoon, the Enfield and Barnet branch of CAMRA asked for a reprieve for the pub, which has a distinctive décor with murals featuring film stars.

The Picture Palace features in the latest edition of CAMRA's Good Beer Guide.

In his letter to the chain, CAMRA's branch secretary Owen Woodliffe said: "Since it was opened some 15 years ago, it has consistently served good quality real ale and the present staff are keen and knowledgeable."

He said there was a shortage of pubs nearby and few places for real ale enthusiasts to drink.

The building originally opened in 1913 as a cinema. It was renamed the Ponders End Electric Theatre in 1920 and got yet another name in 1938 when it became the Plaza. Three years later it was damaged by wartime bombs and it stood empty for 15 years before Enfield Council transformed it into the Howard Hall community centre.

It was taken over by the pub chain in 2001 and is one of 34 pubs up for sale by the chain.

Fellow CAMRA member Andy Hutton, of Osborne Road, Palmers Green, said: "It would be a massive loss to the area. There are few other pubs there."

He added: "It's a very well-known pub. They even had a brewers' evening there a few months ago. It's very sad that it's been chosen for sale."

JD Wetherspoon said there was no specific reason for picking the Picture Palace as one of the boozers it wants to sell.

Mr Woodliffe added that the company had listened to residents when it had put up other pubs for sale in the past and he urged the chain "to do likewise for this magnificent pub".

A company spokesman said the pub would remain trading as a Wetherspoon pub until it was sold and customers would not notice any difference in the running of the pub.

He added: "We understand that customers will be disappointed and we thank them for their loyalty." Staff would be offered jobs at other pubs, he said.

School's new kitchen is on the menu

A NEW £350,000 kitchen is enabling an Enfield school to cook its own hot meals for 300 pupils, instead of having to use an off-site kitchen.

The dining area at St Edmund's Catholic Primary, in Hertford Road, Edmonton, has undergone extensive improvements including the installation of a well-equipped, modern, purpose-built kitchen.

It was paid for with £250,000 of government cash earmarked to provide free school meals for infant pupils, plus an additional £150,000 contribution between the school and the Diocese of Westminster. The new kitchen will be officially blessed today by Father Emmanuel Ogunnaike, parish priest at the nearby The Most Precious Blood and St Edmund Church.

Headteacher Margaret Hanley said: "The food is delicious and there is an increased uptake in school meals. Children like the presentation, fresh tastes and the variety on offer."

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Death of former mayor and 'strong character' Bill Price

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE daughter of a clarinet-playing, jazz-loving former Mayor of Enfield has paid tribute to her public-spirited father.

Bill Price was mayor in 2005/2006 and served as a Conservative councillor for the then Green Street ward (now Enfield Highway) from 1986 until his retirement from local politics in 2010.

His daughter, Angie Milne, 48, who lives in Herefordshire, has paid tribute to the "strong character" of her father, who died in hospital on January 10 at the age of 83 after complications arising from heart surgery he had undergone in the summer.

"He was a very strong character," Angie told the Advertiser. "He took his responsibilities very seriously. People wrote to him all the time with their issues and he took it very seriously."

"He had a real feeling that he was there, as a councillor, to represent the community. He always tried to do what he could to help people."

The lifelong Tottenham Hotspur fan also served as a school governor and was "even on the organising board of the Enfield Carnival", said Angie.

She explained that her father had worked hard all his life and had managed the Meridian Business Park, in Morson Road, Ponders End, up until November 2014 when he was 81 years old.

Mr Price was born and raised in Tottenham before moving to Enfield in the 1970s with his wife Gloria. He remained rooted in the borough for the rest of his life, devoting his energy and time first and foremost to his civic duties.

"He had hardly any free time, but when he was free he loved playing the clarinet in jazz bands and he loved to travel," Angie added.

The funeral will be held on Monday, February 1, at 1.30pm at St James's Church, in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, with a gathering afterwards at Enfield Highway Conservative Club.

He leaves behind his daughter Angie, her five-year-old son and his son Gerald.

Civic minded: Bill Price, Enfield's mayor in 2005/2006, who has died at the age of 83

School's documentary takes pupils on a journey to the Sahara desert

In the desert: A refugee child in Western Sahara

By Julia Gregory
julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.s

A DOCUMENTARY which links Enfield children with young women in a refugee camp in Western Sahara has had its premiere in the town.

The film There and Back Again was shown at a special screening for children from Chace Community School and their families at Enfield Cineworld, in Southbury Road, on Monday.

It features students from the Churchbury Lane school who devised a play inspired by fables and stories from Western Sahara along with their counterparts living in the territory.

The Enfield pupils were filmed by Frena Russom, from Finchley-based arts company Tiger Monkey UK Limited, as they put together the show.

She also visited the refugee camp in Western Sahara, where women living in Sahrawi camps also devised their own take on the stories.

The themes of the show came from a book of photographs and stories about the Sahrawi and their culture.

The Enfield pupils staged two promenade performances which took people on a journey round the school as they shared stories from halfway round the world.

Their work was supported with a £5,000 grant from Enfield's Residents' Priority Fund.

The cash helped them achieve Silver Arts awards. The year nine and ten students created workshops about the stories for pupils at Worcesters Primary School, in Goat Lane, Enfield. and Oaktree Special School, in Chase Side, Southgate.

Emma Ghafur, director of Tiger Monkey UK, said: "The students put together the workshops

Taking a break: Pupils Katie Kyriacou, Ozgi Bozdog, from Chace Community School, in rehearsals for There and Back Again, the film based on legends from Western Sahara and developed their leadership skills and they made a piece of theatre at their school which they showed as a moving performance around the school."

She said they were inspired by the themes of dreams, journeys and challenges which featured in the Western Sahara fables.

"They were themes that they could relate to," she added.

The youngsters also got used to having a filmmaker record them as they put the show together.

The Chace Community School pupils were presented with awards at a red carpet event at the cinema on Monday night.

Puppet master...

ONE dead father. One messed-up family. One girl who just wants to help. One school bully who always gets his own way.

One man of the church offering comfort.

And one hand puppet who is completely out of control – he's shocking, dangerous and taking no prisoners.

All hell's breaking out at the Vaudeville Theatre as black comedy hand to God lands direct from Broadway, where the New York Times hailed it "flat-out hilarious" and the New Yorker called it "Sesame Street meets The Exorcist".

See one of most exciting new plays to come out of America starring Janie Dee, Neil Pearson, Harry Melling, Jemima Rooper and Kevin Mains.

A left hand can certainly be a dangerous thing.

The play is running from February 5 for a limited season at the Vaudeville Theatre, in the Strand, in London.

For more details, visit handtogod.co.uk, on Twitter – @handtogod, or Facebook, Hand to God London.

We have three pairs of tickets to be won. To enter, answer the following question:

■ At which London theatre will you be able to see the show – a) Strand b) Vaudeville c) London?

Send your answer, with your name, address and a daytime telephone number, to: Hand to God Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Hand to God" in the subject line, by noon on Thursday, February 3.

The prizes are top-price tickets and are valid for all Monday to Friday performances, from February 16 to March 25, strictly subject to availability. The tickets are non-transferable and no cash alternative is available. Travel expenses are not included.

Fuzzy fabric has never Felt like this before...

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

HOURS of fun spent playing as a child with the "fuzzy" variety is where many of us first encountered felt – but a new art exhibition features the fabric in an exciting new light.

Be prepared to be astonished by the jaw-dropping artworks and sculptures created with the textile at a free exhibition titled Black Sheep – The Dark Side of Felt currently on display at Forty Hall, in Forty Hill, Enfield.

The touring exhibition by the National Centre for Craft & Design showcases bizarre and disturbing oddities and technically accomplished pieces by artists from the UK, France, Holland, California and Canada.

Included are East Sussex-based artist Barbara Keal, whose startling hats constructed from felt are inspired by real and imaginary animals.

In contrast, there are the odd and mutant forms inspired by more domesticated creatures which comprise much of American Stephanie Metz's work.

Laura Mabbutt, herself an accomplished felt-maker and curator of the exhibition, said she hoped it would highlight the many contemporary uses of the ancient material and get away from the stereotypical "fuzzy felt" image it has.

The exhibition also includes technical demonstrations.

"While in essence the act of turning raw fleece into a matted sheet of felt is a process simple enough for a small child to learn, this exhibition presents exciting and sometimes surprising processes used by contemporary masters of the craft in producing innovative and inspiring work," said Laura.

Black Sheep – The Dark Side of Felt runs until Sunday, May 8.

Press gang uncover scandal

SPOTLIGHT (15, 129 mins)

At its best, investigative journalism is a scalpel that slices through fatty rhetoric and cuts readers to the bones of institutions that should be defending our interests.

In early 2002, the Spotlight Investigations team of the Boston Globe ran a series of meticulously researched articles, exposing the sexual abuse of minors in the Boston archdiocese.

Coverage of the scandal rippled far beyond the city and compelled other victims to come forward, which sent shockwaves through the Roman Catholic Church.

The newspaper was subsequently awarded the 2003 Pulitzer Prize for Public Service in Journalism for its courageous and comprehensive coverage, which lifted a heavy veil of secrecy stretching back several decades.

Thomas McCarthy's impeccably crafted drama pays tribute to the close-knit team of tenacious editors and reporters who tirelessly pursued the ugly truth and wrung their sweat and tears into the exposés.

Deputy managing editor Ben Bradlee Jr (John Slattery) presides over the Boston Globe newsroom and has direct responsibility for the Spotlight team led by Walter 'Robby' Robinson (Michael Keaton).

Down in the basement, Robby and colleagues Michael Rezendes (Mark Ruffalo), Sacha Pfeiffer (Rachel McAdams) and Matt Carroll (Brian d'Arcy James) invest thousands of hours following leads.

News team: Michael Keaton, Liev Schreiber, Mark Ruffalo, Rachel McAdams, John Slattery and Brian d'Arcy James PA

Their work is valuable, but costly, and incoming Boston Globe editor Marty Baron (Liev Schreiber) makes it clear he is willing to make difficult cuts.

"I'm focused on finding a way to make this paper essential to its readers," he tells Robby.

The team is mired in a potentially explosive story. Attorney Mitchell Garabedian (Stanley Tucci) claims to have documents which prove Cardinal Bernard Law (Len Cariou) knew about abuse within the diocese and did nothing.

Marty authorises Robby to quietly pursue the story before he is personally summoned to a meeting with the cardinal.

"I find that this city flourishes when its great institutions work together," purrs the holy man. "I'm of the opinion that for the paper to best perform its function, it needs to stand alone," boldly retorts Marty.

Battle lines are drawn and Robby pleads with his writers to keep their emotions in check as they are confronted with horrific stories of shattered innocence.

"I don't want the Chancery getting wind of this before we know what we have," he implores.

Spotlight is a clinical, precise and riveting dramatisation of a bloody war of words in a city in the thrall of the church. The ensemble cast are exemplary with Ruffalo gifted the film's stand-out scene of unfettered indignation that undoubtedly secured him an Oscar nomination as best supporting actor.

Some of the characters don't feel fully formed, sacrificed perhaps in favour of a forensic pursuit of the facts.

Josh Singer and director McCarthy's script crackles with tension and as the printing presses of the Globe begin to roll, we visibly relax.

HIGH DEMAND FOR LUXURY HOMES AT BALLS PARK AS FINAL HOMES ARE RELEASED

Interest has been extremely high at CALA Homes' exclusive gated development on Balls Park Estate, near Hertford with purchasers eager to take advantage of the opportunity to live in such a unique location. The development is now over 70% sold and the final phase of three bedroom homes has just been released for sale.

Chris Roads, sales and marketing director for CALA Homes North Homes Counties said, "We are extremely pleased with the interest we've had in our new homes at Balls Park. The development represents a unique opportunity to purchase a family home that is set within 63 acres of protected parkland, creating an extremely desirable location to live. We are now over 70% sold and we don't expect the remaining homes to be available for long so I really would urge potential buyers to come and see us soon to avoid disappointment."

CALA at Balls Park is an exclusive gated development of 30 three and four bedroom luxury homes. Each of the homes has external elevations designed to reflect the architecture of the estate, whilst inside they benefit from light, contemporary interiors, with some properties featuring master bedroom balconies some with stunning views across the parklands.

Chris continues: "For people looking to start 2016 in a brand new home, we are also offering our Part Exchange scheme at Balls Park which helps speed up the whole buying process and eliminate any worries; all you have to do is choose your dream home."

Part exchange is ideal for those who don't have the time or energy to go through the usual process of a house sale. CALA Homes effectively acts as a cash buyer for your existing home, meaning there are no estate agents fees, home report costs, advertising costs and no chain, thus saving you time, hassle and stress.

Among the final homes now available at Balls Park is plot 25, a three bedroom terraced home priced at £624,950, which is available with a 100% part exchange. It features a spacious open plan kitchen, dining, living area with French doors opening out to the rear garden. The first floor has a master bedroom with dressing room and en suite bathroom, as well as French Doors opening out to your own private balcony. There are also two further bedrooms with a family bathroom.

Believed to have inspired Jane Austen's novel Pride and Prejudice, Balls Park features on the English Heritage Register of Parks and Gardens of Special Historic Interest. The new homes form the final part of the sympathetic redevelopment of the Balls Park estate, which was built originally by Sir John Harrison between 1637 and 1640, before being transformed into an award-winning development.

Set within parkland, Balls Park residents can enjoy the natural beauty that surrounds the county town of Hertford. For commuters Hertford East railway station is just one mile from the development giving access into London Liverpool Street in 45 minutes and Hertford North is two miles away with services into London Kings Cross St. Pancras in 35 minutes. The M25 is easily reached via the A414 or the A10. For international travel, London Luton and Stansted airports are within a 25 minute drive and Heathrow is just over an hour away.

For families, some of Hertfordshire's most renowned state and private schools are in Hertford itself, including Simon Balle School, Hertford St Andrew CofE School, Abel Smith Primary, Richard Hale School and Haileybury Independent Boarding School and for downsizers Balls Park is a country home like no other.

Homes at Balls Park currently range in price from £624,950 - £749,950.

For further information, or to make an appointment to view the show home which is open daily from 10.30am-5pm, call 01922 505053 or visit www.cala.co.uk.

MAXIMISE THE VALUE OF YOUR LAND

North London has seen an increase in property values throughout 2015 which has increased the potential value of development land.

This can range from land to the rear of your existing property through to a yard or even an outbuilding. The national policy for planning is geared towards delivering more new houses throughout the next decade. Coupled with an increase in demand and a lack of supply, now is a good time to come forward with developable and deliverable sites.

For example - there are niche developers who specialise in combining groups of gardens to create housing schemes. It may be worth considering this concept and discussing whether you and your neighbours would be keen to explore this idea. If so Lanes can facilitate this.

Of course - all development should be considerate to the surrounding environment and be sustainable for the community, but the nation badly needs to provide more housing within our existing communities, so if you are in possession of potential development land, you could help shape the future of your neighbourhood, whilst maximising the value of the land.

Lanes specialist Land & New Homes Company can provide up to date market appraisals and advise on all things development from inception to completion.

Photographs: They really are worth a thousand words!

Have you ever looked on-line for a property?

Assuming you're searching on one of the country's leading property portals (such as Rightmove, Zoopla or Primelocation), you enter your search criteria (location, number of bedrooms and price etc.), you hit "Search" and sit back.

Then, before your very eyes will be displayed a short-list of properties that meet your requirements. As you scan down the list, one will catch your eye and you'll click on it.

The first thing people will usually do would be to flick through the agent's photos to see if it's somewhere they'd like to live. If the pictures are not up to scratch, it could be the difference of buying or not buying. Up to this point, knowingly or not, your eyes have been making the decisions. And that's why when displaying your property for sale on the world's on-line 24/7 High Street, making the right impression counts.

At Atkinsons, we believe that showing your property in its best possible light is of paramount importance. We need to get your property in front of the right people, making it stand out from the rest. And using 'lifestyle' images helps to portray the feel of your property. That's why our staff are professionally trained by the Property Photography Academy, so you get professional standard photography at no extra cost!

The car that beats the system

By Matt Joy

IT'S a good time for all types of electric cars as diesel is going through some dark days, plus the crucial infrastructure is getting better all the time.

No wonder then that the Mitsubishi Outlander is so popular, being one of the more affordable PHEVs (plug-in hybrid electric vehicle) as well as one of the most practical.

Now there's a substantially revised version ready for market with changes to the power train operation and the suspension as well as interior and exterior design. Equipment levels have been given a boost too and crucially the Outlander PHEV remains eligible for the Government's £5,000 grant.

The previous Outlander had all the typical SUV design cues you'd expect, but there was something about its proportions that made it look unusually tall for its length. Clearly that was something taken on by Mitsubishi HQ because the new Outlander is longer than before thanks to redesigned front and rear bumpers. The new design is sharper too, giving the Outlander a more distinctive face and boosting the feeling of quality with revised lights and alloy wheel designs too.

The Outlander is also doing great things for Mitsubishi's image in the UK as it currently dominates the PHEV segment and is helping to bring new buyers into the brand.

The Outlander sits comfortably in the mid-sized SUV segment and is well equipped to offer useful space for passengers and luggage. The high driving position is appealing with a low-set dashboard offering a good view out, with more than sufficient head and legroom. It's also spacious in the back, if not class-leading, while boot space is 463 litres – a little less than some rivals, but this is the flip side of carrying the extra electrical hardware.

The underlying hardware of the Out-lander PHEV are as before, with electric motors front and rear combining with a 2.0-litre petrol engine to give a variety of hybrid modes. You can use the petrol engine as a range extender or as direct drive to the wheels, and run the batteries to give a power boost or save their output for pure electric mode. One change is the sharpening of the system response at low speeds, cutting the 0-25mph time by 50 per cent.

Mitsubishi has also worked at improving the overall driving experience. Retuned suspension with stiffer underpinnings are a help, creating a more composed ride, while the handling is safe and secure for a car of this size and shape. But the Outlander PHEV's biggest appeal is the flexibility of its power train, offering sufficiently brisk performance when required alongside super-frugal economy in the right conditions. It's hard not to feel like you're beating the system when you're behind the wheel.

All things considered, it's hard not to see the Outlander PHEV as something of a bargain. It's priced the same as the equivalent diesel version with the government grant included which means you can sneak into the GX3h model for a measly £29,249 and get 18-inch alloys, keyless entry and start, Bluetooth and a decent audio system, with a few extra toys thrown in for this latest model. Go the whole hog for £35,999 and there's the satnav with reversing camera, powered tailgate, radar cruise control and even a heated steering wheel.

If there's a car for the moment then the Outlander PHEV is pretty much it. It's practical, comfortable and usable, making it perfect for family car duties, yet the higher-specification versions feel reasonably luxurious too. But it's the potential for zero emissions running and spectacular fuel consumption over short journeys that makes it such an appealing prospect.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE
FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

We'll give you the best of both worlds...every week, all week!

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

CHEERFUL CHADLI IS BACK IN THE GOALS

NACER CHADLI was delighted to be back on target after scoring in both Tottenham Hotspur's wins last week.

The Belgian international followed up his 66th-minute strike which clinched a 2-0 victory in the FA Cup third round replay at Leicester City last Wednesday by coming off the bench to wrap up a 3-1 Premier League win over Crystal Palace at Selhurst Park on Saturday.

Spurs fell behind in the first half when Jan Vertonghen, who went off injured in the second half, inadvertently deflected a cross into his own net.

Chadli replaced the tiring Eric Dier 10 minutes into the second period and the substitution soon paid dividends as Harry Kane headed home Chadli's cross to make it 1-1 in the 63rd minute.

Dele Alli's stunning strike put Spurs ahead in the 84th minute before Chadli added the third goal with a long-range shot in the fifth minute of stoppage time.

"I came on and made an impact," said the 26-year-old. "That's all it's about – winning games – and if you're playing you need to make an impact. I'm very happy."

And Chadli was quick to pay tribute to Alli's exquisite turn and volley on the edge of the penalty area.

"I prefer his goal, to be honest," said Chadli. "It was unbelievable. I was just five or 10 yards from him and I saw the action that he did. It was very, very beautiful to see. It was a nice finish and it put us 2-1 up."

Alli himself said: "It was a bit of a natural thing. I didn't really think about it too much and I sort of shocked myself. I think you could tell from my celebration, I didn't really know what to do."

"You can work on different kinds of finishing in training, but you can't really replicate a game situation. It's just the emotions you're feeling. I like to express myself and I showed that."

The 19-year-old England international added: "I think the lads all fought really well, especially to come back from 1-0 down and show the determination we did. It was a great three points in the end."

"We're a really confident side, we never stop playing until the last whistle and I think you could see that."

"We have great belief in each other, we know we've got a great squad with great depth. Players can come off the bench and change the game. I think they did that."

"There was never really a point when we thought the game was over and we just kept fighting until the end."

"The fans were brilliant again, they kept at us to keep going and keep fighting. I think the club is in a really good place at the moment. We just need to keep winning games and keep playing well."

They were sentiments echoed by head coach Mauricio Pochettino, who said Alli deserved a lot of praise for "a great, great, great goal."

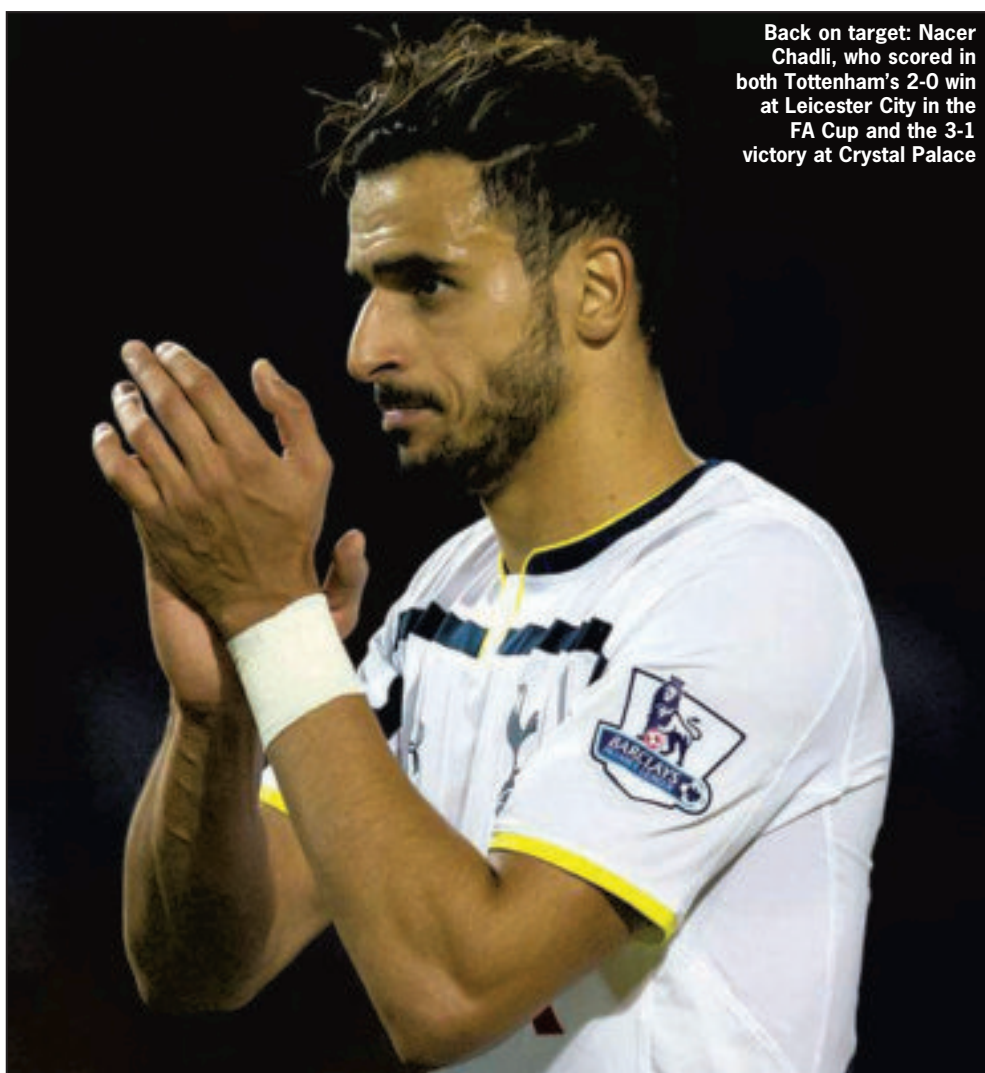

"I'm very pleased, I think the effort was fantastic," said Pochettino after watching his side hit back to retain fourth place in the table – five points clear of fifth-placed Manchester United, with five points covering the top four.

"We went 1-0 down in the first half, we sorted some problems and in the second half we fully deserved the result after a lot of fantastic goals."

"It's been a great week and it was an important win in a difficult stadium."

"I'm very pleased. After in the FA Cup against Leicester, the effort from the squad was fantastic. It was a great result."

Following their cup win at Leicester, which featured a man-of-the-match performance from South Korean striker Heung-Min Son, who scored his first FA Cup goal and helped create the second for Chadli, Spurs face a trip to League One strugglers Colchester United in the fourth round on Saturday.

Back on target: Nacer Chadli, who scored in both Tottenham's 2-0 win at Leicester City in the FA Cup and the 3-1 victory at Crystal Palace

Spirited Skolars suffer narrow defeat by Wigan Borough postponed

LONDON Skolars were narrowly edged out by four points against a Wigan Warriors select side last Friday at the annual Capital Challenge.

It was the third year that Wigan had been involve in the annual pre-season match at the Honourable Artillery Company ground in the City and was the most closely-fought game between the two teams to date.

All the points came in the first half as the Warriors opened a 10-0 lead before Skolars hit back with a converted try on the stroke of half-time.

A nervy second half was played out in wet conditions and neither side were able to score again as a young Wigan team held on for a 10-6 victory.

Skolars half-back Charlie Lawrence's kick got the game under way and both sides started slowly until the 11th minute when the Skolars made an 80-metre break following an intervention, but Warriors winger Tom Davies brought the move to a halt with a last-gasp tackle which pushed the ball out of the home side's hands.

The Warriors drew first blood after 20 minutes when half-back Josh Woods's well-timed pass out wide to Liam Marshall split the Skolars defence and the winger finished in the corner. Back-rower Jake Moore converted from the touchline to give Wigan a 6-0 advantage.

The Warriors extended their lead nine minutes later when Marshall pounced on Lewis Heckford's grubber kick into the corner. Moore's conversion attempt went just wide of the mark.

Skolars appeared to be heading to the interval trailing 10-0, but they put themselves back in the picture just before the break when Joe Price touched down and Lawrence added the extras from the sidelines to cut the deficit to our points.

The Warriors shaded the early stages of the second half, but Skolars put on the pressure in the last 10 minutes and were thwarted when good defence by Wigan's Craig Mullen in the middle of the park forced a knock-on.

Thereafter, the Warriors were strong enough to hang on against their spirited Kingstone Press Championship One opponents and secure victory in front of a healthy crowd.

Skolars continue their build-up to the new season with the second London Clash on Saturday when Kingstone Press Championship side London Broncos are the visitors to the New River Stadium, in White Hart Lane, Wood Green (3pm).

HARINGEY BOROUGH remain in 18th place in the Ryman League Division One North after their home game against Wroxham on Saturday was called off.

That followed a 3-3 draw away to Dereham Town last Tuesday after Borough had fought back from 1-0 down to lead 3-1.

They fell behind to a Luke Tuttle goal after 29 minutes before Ashley Forbes-Taylor, who was sent off in the closing stages, equalised a minute before half-time.

Ishmail Kamara put Borough ahead after 62 minutes and Coby Rowe netted their third goal four minutes later.

However, the home side rallied with two goals in three minutes from Rhys Logan (78) and Luke Winter (80).

Haringey Borough make the trip to Tilbury this Saturday.
